

Understanding the UK Education System

1: Read the text and answer the questions.

Children in the UK go to school from age 4 or 5. Primary school has two parts: Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2. After primary school, children go to secondary school. There are different types of schools such as state schools and private schools. Most children go to state schools, which are free. Private schools are paid for by parents. Schools use tools like newsletters, apps, and meetings to talk to parents. Teachers, teaching assistants, and headteachers work in schools.
